Emma Frost : Airsick (NHB Modern Plays) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Airsick (NHB Modern Plays):

A turbulent black comedy about love, loneliness and how we shape our future. Lucy thinks she's finally cracked the love thing. Joe, her handsome American boyfriend, is moving to London. So how come he seems to be heading for the emergency exit? Lucy's best friend Scarlet is on an endless carousel of losers, users and married men. Her dad just thinks we're all better off flying solo. But when a mysterious New Zealander arrives in their midst and starts showing an unhealthy interest in Lucy, it seems that everyone's baggage is finally coming out on display... 'wincingly funny' - Independent 'extremely assured' - Independent on Sunday 'astonishingly candid... makes you hope for a recurring Frost' - Guardian

About the Author Emma Frost works in television. This is her first play for the stage.
