George F. Walker : Heaven before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Heaven:

Five instantly recognizable multicultural characters play out their coincidental relationships in a contemporary paradisedash;a park on the outskirts of a city. The pursuit of their personal goals, usually considered as good and worthwhile in our society, pits each of these characters irrevocably against each other, and good intentions are carried to their absurd extremes. Cast of 4 men, 2 women.
