Claudia, the mother of three girls with no good male figure made some bad choices in life. The choices she made involved drugs, jail and deception. Her three girls with very different personalities suffered from molestation by family members. Claudia daughters followed in her foot steps making one bad decision after the next. Their decisions were made out of anger. The results of their decisions ended with drugs, death, physical abuse and more. They had each other but was that enough to keep this family together?

This book really shows how making bad decisions when your already in a bad situation it can lead to disaster. The author really touched on how molestation was handled in the past. Families went on as if nothing every happened not realizing how it affected the victim. About the Author Temika Smith is a customer service professional whom enjoy writing, traveling, and spending time with her family.
