Hassan Abdulrazzak : The Prophet (Oberon Modern Plays) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Prophet (Oberon Modern Plays):

It's January 28th 2011 and Egypt stands on the brink. For Layla and Hisham, a young couple living in downtown

Cairo, a dictatorial and corrupt government is only one of their problems. As the world shifts, cataclysmically, around them, some long-hidden secrets threaten to emerge and tear them apart. Based on extensive interviews in Cairo with revolutionaries and soldiers, journalists and cab drivers, this new drama depicts both a revolution in progress and the society from which it sprang.
